

Standing up against GBV

Description

Our colleagues at DENIS took the call to take a stand against Gender-based Violence (GBV) to heart, showing their support for gender equality and society at large.

Every six weeks, the various departments at DENIS present innovations that have had a positive impact on the business to senior management team and directors.

The DENIS Quality Assurance Department recently presented an innovation to the business that included standing up against GBV to show our support for this very real issue.

“We involved our entire team of 16 members to indicate that this is a community issue, thereby encouraging all men to also participate. We dressed in orange to promote gender equality and support to all members of our society,” says Jennifer Solomon, Quality Assurance Team Leader.
