Ndzalama consistently goes the extra mile in assisting colleagues with finance-related queries. What stands out the most about him is that he never hesitates to help – even when the query does not fall under his assigned members.

“He doesn’t question; he simply steps in and resolves the issue with professionalism and patience,” says his Medscheme colleague Nyengedzo Munyadziwa.

“I have learned so much from him, especially in an area that has always been a challenge for me: finance queries. Through his support, guidance, and willingness to teach, I’ve gained confidence and knowledge I didn’t have before. He has truly made my workdays easier, and I am grateful for the role he has played in my development.”

Employees like Ndzalama make a real difference. His commitment, kindness, and team spirit deserve recognition across the company. Thank you, Ndzalama, for your outstanding work and for always being there. We appreciate you.
