

Communication is key

Description

We're in the midst of winter – the perfect time to bundle up and keep warm as you settle in to read AfroScenes, which is packed full of a celebration of our people!

default watermark

Communication is vital to our success as a company – it's the glue that holds us together as we collaborate and innovate to grow AfroCentric.

We've introduced several new tools in our internal communications environment to bring you the information you need to thrive, the way you'd like to receive it. A pop-up message in the bottom right of your screen and a tickertape running across the bottom of your screen will remind you of upcoming events, surveys, and important news. The lock screen displays important news about some of our strategic projects on your computer screen when it's locked. These are some innovations we have adopted to improve the ways we communicate with you.

I'm pleased to see that engagement levels are on the rise. Participation in our recent staff activations for Mother's Day, Father's Day, Workers' Day, and Youth Month is a testament to the strength of our community spirit. Your active involvement not only makes these events successful but also fosters a sense of unity and camaraderie in our business. Thank you also for your input in our Internal Comms Survey – your feedback has given us lots of ideas to work with, going forward

We asked you to tell us more about a colleague or team that inspires you, and your response was an outpouring of kindness, caring and dedication in true AfroCentric fashion.

I hope you find pride, inspiration, and a renewed sense of connection with your fellow team members as you read AfroScenes. Please keep the feedback coming. Your insights help us create an even better magazine with each edition.

Enjoy the read.

Palesa Makhetha

Category

1. Ed's Letter